THE SCHOOL'S LEGAL FRAMEWORK

With the setting up of an International School in the south of the country, the Ministry of Education is responding to the growing heterogeneity of the pupil population. It is the government's responsibility to offer a state education system in which each and every pupil has a chance of succeeding, whatever the language spoken at home.

International education is already offered in state secondary schools in the Centre of the country but that is not yet the case in the South. Now the structural development of the economy in that part of the country and, the University of Luxembourg's relocation to Belval, has given rise to increased demand for children's schooling in international classes. The availability of high-quality education is an important factor in the decision of a company, of a foreign investor or of scientific experts as to whether or not to set up in Luxembourg.

The new Differdange International School (EIDD) will be open to both children and young people from an immigrant background and any other pupils wishing to be educated in an international context. Its priority target will be the children and young people of Differdange and of the south of the country in general. Over and above efforts to integrate foreign pupils who will be remaining in the country, offering a new International School matches the needs of young people who are temporarily resident in the Grand Duchy and who are expected to continue their education and/or embark on their career in a different country.
