1.1- Rationale

- Language is the principal means of human communication. Through speaking, listening, reading & writing, ideas and information are expressed and communicated, aspirations, attitudes and emotions are articulated, and imaginative possibilities are explored. Language is a central influence in the learning process and all aspects of language are interdependent. Children learn language, but they also learn through language. Language helps the child to clarify and interpret experience, to acquire new concepts, and to add depth to concepts already grasped.
- This syllabus takes account of the competences for communication in mother tongue expressed in the European Council's Lisbon Strategy for Lifelong Learning (2000) namely 'the ability to express and interpret concepts, thoughts, feelings, facts and opinions in both oral and written form (listening, speaking, reading and writing), and to interact linguistically in an appropriate and creative way in a full range of societal and cultural contexts.'
- The English Language I syllabus sets high expectations of what children in the European Schools should achieve. Full account is taken of the spectrum of needs across classes and schools. Flexibility is built in to enable teachers to scroll forward and back across strands to ensure that planning takes full account of the differing starting points involved in learning for groups of pupils including students without a language section (SWALS) who study within Anglophone sections.
- Oral language is a crucial factor in the development of the child's cognitive abilities and it facilitates the acquisition of social and communicative skills. It is, above all, the principal integrating element in the English syllabus. Activities such as comprehension, responding to text and the approach to writing are grounded in a process of talk and discussion.
- The approach to the teaching and learning of reading is based on the child's general language development and on the development of phonemic and phonological awareness. Having developed an awareness of the sounds in words through a rich oral language experience, the child then begins to acquire an understanding of sound-letter relationships. Particular emphasis should be placed on comprehension and the development of higher-order skills through reading and responding to a wide variety of texts. It is an important feature of the English syllabus that children's reading should encompass a rich and varied range of text. From the earliest years they should experience a print-rich environment in which they have ready access to books. Through such an atmosphere, in which books are seen to be valued, children are led to appreciate the usefulness and the pleasures of reading.

- The ability to write clearly and expressively is developed progressively through the process of writing. The child is encouraged to write for different audiences and purposes and in a variety of genres. This diversity and flexibility will stimulate creativity and develop the child's ability to use written language to effectively convey a wide range of ideas, attitudes and emotions. He or she is enabled to develop a sense of appropriate presentation in writing through drafting a piece of writing, discussing it, editing it, and producing a finished piece of work.
- Technological skills are increasingly important for advancement in education, work, and leisure. The syllabus should allow for opportunities to integrate information and communication technologies into the teaching and learning process and to provide children with opportunities to use modern technology to enhance their learning in all subjects. For each year group, opportunities are identified for pupils to develop all aspects of English through using technology.
- A continuing process of reflection, self-evaluation, review and innovation will enable the school to realise the optimum learning experience for the children in its care. This is best achieved through regular formal and informal consultation among the principal, the staff, and the school community.

1.2 – Aims

The aims of the English Syllabus are to

- promote positive attitudes and develop an appreciation of the value of language – spoken, read and written
- enable the child to develop an awareness of European cultures and traditions through listening, speaking, reading and writing
- create, foster and maintain the child's interest and enjoyment in expression and communication
- develop the child's ability to engage appropriately in listener-speaker relationships
- develop confidence and competence in listening, speaking, reading and writing
- develop cognitive ability and the capacity to clarify thinking through oral language, writing and reading
- enable the child to read and write independently

- enhance emotional, imaginative and aesthetic development through oral, reading and writing experiences

1.3 Objectives

When due account is taken of individual abilities and varying circumstances, the English Syllabus should enable the child to:

- gain pleasure and fulfilment from language activities
- develop the skill of listening actively and appreciate the significance of tone of voice, facial expression and gesture
- learn to understand the conventions of oral language interaction and use oral language in a variety of social situations
- expand his/her vocabulary and develop a command of grammar, syntax and punctuation
- become fluent and explicit in communicating ideas and experiences
- explore and develop ideas and concepts through talk, directed discussion and writing
- identify and evaluate the key points, issues and central meaning of a text or oral presentation and efficiently organise the information gained
- justify and defend opinions and present a coherent argument orally and in writing
- express intuitions, feelings, impressions, ideas and reactions in response to real and imaginary situations through talk, discussion and writing
- organise, clarify, interpret and extend experience through oral language activity and writing
- explore and express reactions to poetry, fiction and the arts, and refine aesthetic response through oral language activity and writing
- create, develop and sustain imaginary situations through talk, discussion and improvisational drama

- compose, relate and write his/her own stories and poems
- explore, experiment with and enjoy all the playful aspects of language
- develop print awareness, an understanding of the purposes of print , and control over the different ways meaning is derived from print
- systematically develop children’s phonemic awareness; their skills in ‘decoding’ and ‘encoding’ text
- develop an appropriate range of comprehension strategies
- develop an awareness of the richness and diversity of reading material available (including English & Anglo-Irish literary heritage and from other cultures and traditions) and read from a variety of texts of gradually increasingly complexity
- choose his/her reading material and engage in and enjoy sustained silent reading
- develop a sense of discrimination with regard to the use of language and images in the media
- write for different purposes and different audiences
- write in a variety of genres appropriate to school and outside needs
- learn to edit and refine writing and develop a sense of appropriate presentation
- develop a personal style of writing and learn to distinguish and to use appropriate levels of formality
- share writing and responses to reading experience with other children and adults
- use computer technology in learning to write and for information retrieval
- enhance reading and writing development through the involvement of parents or guardians.

2.1 – Introduction

- This syllabus is a revision of the syllabus of 1995. The President of the Working Group, David Townsend, UK Inspector and Anne O'Sullivan Irish Inspector, who led this review, duly acknowledge the significant co-ordination work of Mme L SOLLETT, Alicante.
- It was compiled by the following group of teachers and inspectors from the United Kingdom and Ireland:
- M. H. LEWIS: Bruxelles II, Mme S. BOULTER: Bruxelles II, Mme D. MURPHY: Bruxelles III, Mme B. NI ODHRAIN: Bruxelles III, M. N. FOSTER: Luxembourg I, Mme J. HURST: Luxembourg II, Mme S. JAMESON: Culham, M. J. FITZGERALD: Karlsruhe
- It takes into account information from the European Schools system and national curricula of the UK and Ireland and reflects the achievements that pupils would be expected to reach in their national systems, although it is not an exact match.
- While much of the syllabus will be taught through specific English lessons, it is expected that pupils are able to develop and transfer their literacy skills to other syllabus subjects, especially Discovery of The World.
- Although the statements for each year group are numbered, they are not hierarchical.
- The requirements of the Nursery Years go beyond the current requirements of the European Schools Nursery Syllabus. However, there are pupils who can achieve these expectations and they have an entitlement to progress at their own pace. Therefore the phonics for reading and spelling programme is sequential but affords teachers the flexibility to scroll forward and backwards as needed during the early years (N-2) to pitch objectives according to children's readiness. High expectations are essential. The programme is comprehensive and structured to ensure children learn the skills they need so as to greatly reduce the numbers requiring later 'catch up' interventions.
- Spelling guidance is drawn from the document, 'National Strategies –Support for Spelling' which charts a clear year by year programme.

- It is intended that the syllabus should be used flexibly and as a continuum such that, for example, a pupil in year 1 might need to access aspects of the nursery content or the Year 2 content depending on their readiness. The syllabus is a guide to expectations of pupils in different year groups. For some pupils the Nursery requirements may not be achieved until the end of Year 2.
- It is imperative that teachers for each age group use the content of this syllabus to plan integrated units of work. Care should be taken to ensure that each unit contains a balance of objectives drawn from across the speaking and listening, reading and writing strands of the syllabus.
- All Anglophone sections must establish the means to regularly and accurately measure progress, especially in reading and writing, in order to inform the planning of next steps in learning, both short and long term. Each year teachers should be able to give a clear picture of the levels that pupils have achieved. It is recommended that teachers use national guidance materials e.g. English National Curriculum levels for such a purpose in addition to the required European School Carnet Scolaire.
- In the writing section there is no specific reference to teaching a style of handwriting. All Anglophone sections are expected to establish a handwriting policy and style that will lead pupils to mastering a quick, legible and efficient style. It is likely that by the time they leave Y5 pupils will have established their own styles that are largely based on a section's chosen style. It is up to the section in each school to decide whether or not to encourage pupils to use joined writing from the start. It is recommended that pupils are taught a standard round/italic style and learn from the outset to include a short joining stroke ready for joining completely.

2.1 – Introduction

- Le présent programme constitue une révision du programme de 1995. Le Président du Groupe de travail, David Townsend, inspecteur britannique, et Anne O'Sullivan, inspectrice irlandaise, qui ont dirigé cette révision, remercient chaleureusement Mme L. SOLLETT, d'Alicante, pour son important travail de coordination.
- Ce programme a été élaboré par un groupe d'enseignants et d'inspecteurs du Royaume-Uni et d'Irlande comprenant:
- M. H. LEWIS: Bruxelles II, Mme S. BOULTER: Bruxelles II, Mme D. MURPHY: Bruxelles III, Mme B. NI ODHRAIN: Bruxelles III, M. N. FOSTER: Luxembourg I, Mme J. HURST: Luxembourg II, Mme S. JAMESON: Culham, M. J. FITZGERALD: Karlsruhe.
- Il prend en compte les informations provenant du système des Ecoles européennes et des programmes nationaux britanniques et irlandais et reflète le niveau que les élèves sont censés atteindre dans leurs systèmes nationaux, bien qu'il n'y ait pas d'équivalence absolue en la matière.
- Bien que l'essentiel du programme soit enseigné par le biais de cours d'Anglais spécifiques, on attend des élèves qu'ils soient capables de développer et transférer leurs compétences en matière de lecture et d'écriture dans d'autres matières, et en particulier aux cours de Découverte du Monde.
- Bien que les commentaires pour chaque année d'études soient numérotés, ils ne font pas l'objet d'une hiérarchie.
- Les exigences du cycle maternel dépassent les exigences actuelles du Programme des Ecoles européennes pour la Maternelle. Toutefois, il y a des élèves qui sont capables d'atteindre les résultats escomptés, et ceux-ci ont le droit de progresser à leur propre rythme. C'est pourquoi le programme de phonétique pour la lecture et l'orthographe est séquentiel mais laisse aux enseignants la flexibilité nécessaire pour avancer et revenir en arrière en fonction des besoins rencontrés au cours des premières années (N-2) afin d'adapter leurs objectifs aux capacités des enfants. Des attentes élevées sont essentielles. Le programme est complet et structuré afin de garantir que les enfants acquièrent les compétences dont ils ont besoin, ce qui diminuera grandement le nombre d'enfants à qui il faudra plus tard des interventions de « rattrapage ».
- Les conseils en matière d'orthographe sont tirés du document « Stratégies nationales – Aide pour l'orthographe » qui organise clairement le programme pour chaque année.
- Ce programme devrait être utilisé de manière flexible et continue de sorte que, par exemple, un élève de 1^e année puisse accéder à certains aspects du contenu du programme de 2^e maternelle, en fonction de ses capacités. Le programme constitue un guide des compétences attendues des élèves des différentes années. Pour certains élèves, les exigences du cycle maternel peuvent ne pas être atteintes avant la fin de la 2^e année.

- Il est impératif que les enseignants de chaque année utilisent le contenu de ce programme pour planifier des unités de travail intégrées. Il faut s'assurer que chaque unité ait des objectifs équilibrés entre les différentes compétences développées dans le programme, à savoir l'expression orale et l'écoute, la lecture et l'écriture.
- Toutes les sections anglophones doivent se donner les moyens de mesurer régulièrement et précisément les progrès accomplis, en particulier en ce qui concerne la lecture et l'écriture, afin d'en tenir compte dans le processus de planification des prochaines étapes de l'apprentissage, tant à court terme qu'à long terme. Chaque année, les enseignants doivent être capables d'indiquer clairement le niveau atteint par les élèves. Il est recommandé aux enseignants d'utiliser les documents d'orientation nationaux, par ex . les « English National Curriculum levels » (niveaux du Programme national d'Anglais) dans ce but, en plus du Carnet Scolaire obligatoire à l'Ecole européenne.
- Dans la section consacrée à l'écriture, aucune référence spécifique n'est faite à l'enseignement d'un style d'écriture manuscrite. Toutes les sections anglophones doivent établir une politique relative à l'écriture et au style qui permettra aux élèves de maîtriser un style rapide, lisible et efficace. Il est probable que lorsqu'ils quittent la 5^e année, les élèves auront acquis leur propre style largement basé sur le style choisi par leur section. C'est à la section de chaque école de décider d'encourager ou non les élèves à lier leur écriture dès le début. Il est recommandé d'apprendre aux élèves un style classique arrondi/italique et d'apprendre dès le départ à inclure un petit trait qui les préparera à lier leur écriture.

2.1 – Einleitung

- Dieser Lehrplan entstand im Nachgang zu der Überarbeitung des Lehrplans aus dem Jahr 1995. Der Vorsitzende der Arbeitsgruppe, Herr David Townsend, Inspektor des Vereinigten Königreichs, und Frau Anne O’Sullivan, die irische Inspektorin, die für die Überarbeitung verantwortlich war, danken Frau L SOLLETT aus Alicante für die gute Koordinierungsarbeit.
- Der Lehrplan wurde von den nachstehenden Lehrkräften und Inspektoren/innen aus dem Vereinigten Königreich und Irland zusammengestellt:
- Herr H. LEWIS: Brüssel II, Frau S. BOULTER: Brüssel II, Frau D. MURPHY: Brüssel III, Frau B. NI ODHRAIN: Brüssel III, Herr N. FOSTER: Luxemburg I, Frau J. HURST: Luxemburg II, Frau S. JAMESON: Culham, Herr J. FITZGERALD: Karlsruhe
- Hierin werden die Informationen sowohl aus dem System der Europäischen Schulen als auch aus dem nationalen Lehrplan des Vereinigten Königreichs und Irlands berücksichtigt. Dieser Lehrplan spiegelt die Errungenschaften wider, welche die Schüler/innen erwartungsgemäß in ihren nationalen Systemen erreichen. Es handelt sich jedoch nicht um eine vollumfassende Übereinstimmung.
- Während ein Teil des Lehrplans im Zuge spezifischer Englischkurse unterrichtet wird, wird davon ausgegangen, dass die Schüler/innen in der Lage sind, ihre Lese- und Schreibfertigkeiten zu entwickeln und auf andere Fächer zu übertragen, insbesondere auf das Fach Entdeckung der Welt.
- Die Erklärungen je Jahrgangsstufe sind zwar nummeriert, folgen jedoch keiner Hierarchie.
- Die Erfordernisse für den Kindergarten gehen über die aktuellen Anforderungen aus dem Lehrplan der Europäischen Schulen für den Kindergarten hinaus. Einige Schüler/innen können diesen Erwartungen jedoch sehr wohl gerecht werden und haben ein Anrecht auf Fortschritt nach ihrem eigenen Rhythmus. Deshalb wurde Phonetik im Lese- und Rechtschreibungsprogramm sequenziell aufgebaut, was den Lehrkräften Flexibilität beim Vor- und Rückgreifen je nach Bedarf in den ersten Jahren (N-2) abverlangt, sodass die Ziele angepeilt werden, für die die Kinder bereit sind. Hohe Erwartungen sind von wesentlicher Bedeutung. Der Lehrplan ist umfassend und strukturiert, damit gewährleistet wird, dass die Kinder die erforderlichen Fähigkeiten erlernen und der spätere Bedarf an „Nachholarbeit“ gesenkt wird.
- Die Leitlinien für die Rechtschreibung stammen aus dem Dokument „National Strategies – Support for Spelling“, in dem ein klarer Ablauf von einem Jahr zum anderen dargelegt wird.

- Der Lehrplan ist für den flexiblen und kontinuierlichen Gebrauch gedacht, sodass beispielsweise ein Schüler in der 1. Klasse sich mit Aspekten aus dem Programm für den Kindergarten oder dem Programm für die 2. Klasse befassen kann, je nachdem wie weit seine Kenntnisse fortgeschritten sind. Der Lehrplan dient als Leitfaden für die Erwartungen an die Schüler/innen je nach Jahrgangsstufe. Einige Schüler/innen erfüllen die Erfordernisse für den Kindergarten bei Abschluss der 21. Klasse noch nicht.
- Es ist von höchster Wichtigkeit, dass die Lehrkräfte den Inhalt dieses Lehrplans zur Planung integrierter Arbeitseinheiten je Jahrgangsstufe nutzen. Dabei ist zu gewährleisten, dass jede Einheit in ausgeglichenem Maße Ziele aus den Kapiteln über Reden und Hören sowie den Kapiteln über Lesen und Schreiben des Lehrplans umfasst.
- Alle Englischabteilungen müssen Möglichkeiten zur regelmäßigen und akkuraten Beurteilung des Fortschritts vorsehen, insbesondere in den Bereichen Lesen und Schreiben. Diese Beurteilung dient als Grundlage für die Planung der nächsten Schritte im Lernprozess sowohl auf kurze als auch auf lange Sicht. Die Lehrkräfte sollten jedes Jahr ein klares Bild des Niveaus erhalten, welches die Schüler/innen erreicht haben. Es wird empfohlen, dass die Lehrkräfte auf Hilfsmaterialien aus dem nationalen System zurückgreifen, z.B. Niveaus des englischen nationalen Lehrplans ergänzend zu den im Zeugnisheft der Europäischen Schulen verlangten Errungenschaften.
- Im Abschnitt zum Thema Schreiben wird nicht speziell auf die Unterrichtung eines Schreibschriftstils verwiesen. Alle Englischabteilungen sollen eine Schreibschriftpolitik und einen Schreibschriftstil herausstellen, der es den Schülern/innen ermöglicht, schnell einen lesbaren und effizienten Schreibstil zu beherrschen. Wahrscheinlich haben die Schüler/innen bei Abschluss der 5. Klasse ihren eigenen Stil entwickelt, der sich größtenteils an dem von der Abteilung gewählten Stil orientiert. Es obliegt der Abteilung an jeder Schule zu beschließen, ob die Schüler/innen von Beginn an zur Nutzung der Schreibschrift ermutigt werden. Es wird empfohlen, dass den Schüler/innen ein runder/kursiver Standardstil beigebracht wird und sie von Beginn an lernen, einen kurzen Bindungsstrich einzufügen, der die vollständige Verbindung der Buchstaben ermöglicht.

3.1 Planning process – guidelines

First Steps

- Look for themes and links in Discovery of the World and other subjects.
- Link with genres
- Highlight key objectives across speaking, listening, reading, writing and phonics
- Decide when each unit of work will be taught and how long it will last.

It may be helpful to:

- Make an outline plan of the academic year, finding suitable opportunities to link L1 Units of work to cross-curricular themes.
- Plan discrete units of work alongside continuous objectives eg. spelling, independent reading, presentation.
- Highlight needs of cohort eg. level of English, SEN.
- Identify main texts and resources for the unit

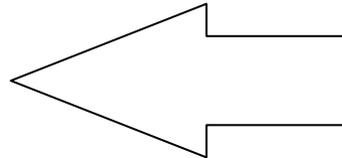

Identify differentiated learning outcomes – what children will know at the end of each unit:

- Some children will need more support and...
- Most children should...
- Some children will go further and...

It is important to plan these with high expectations, even if some children will need support. Reference should be made to genre features and year group objectives

Some objectives will be continuous and run across several units of work

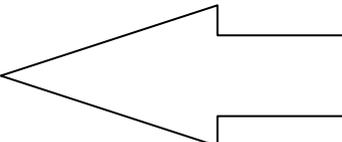

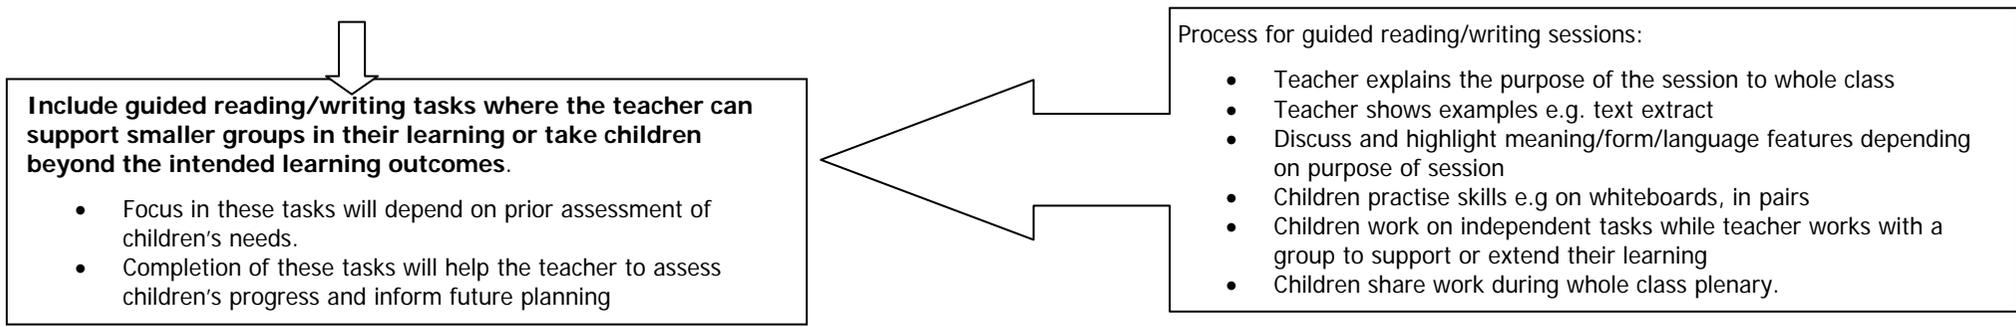

Define teaching and sequences of learning. Children must be taken from less familiarity with text type, to a deeper understanding as a reader and then a confident writer:

1. Familiarisation/Immersion in text/Analysis
2. Capturing Ideas
3. Focused extended writing

Typical Approaches include:

1. Book Talk, Writer's talk, identifying text features & organisation, practise & apply relevant 'stand alone' objectives e.g. sentence construction
2. Discussion, storyboarding, drama, planning e.g. mind maps, flow charts
3. Modelling writing, scribing, identify focus, group & shared writing, drafting, & review, presentation & sharing

Short term planning – a checklist

Clear learning outcomes taken from each strand of year group objectives		Differentiation in place, taking account of learning & language needs of pupils - and not always differentiation by outcome
Cross-curricular links maximised		Word and Sentence level work put into practice in pupils' own speaking and writing, rather than practice exercises
Flows through from receptive to productive skills		Shared writing, in appropriate form, precedes independent writing
Uses range of exciting and relevant resources, including authentic texts, audio, visual, ICT and realia/concrete resources		Plenary sessions relate back to the learning outcomes for the lesson and <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • address misconceptions • inform next lesson(s) and tasks • involve children in a variety of ways
Individual lessons connect to each other and build on prior learning		Shared listening and language modelling extend independent speaking
Teaching, learning, tasks & activities relate to learning outcomes		Assessment opportunities identified, with reference to each strand of year group objectives
Continuous objectives are regularly revisited and consolidated/extended as appropriate		Concrete objectives are clear and precise

A range of teaching strategies are used, including whole class, small group, paired and peer led.		A range of learning styles are accommodated, including multisensory approaches and provision for pupils with SEN and/or learning or language difficulties.
Opportunities are given to talk about tasks; before, during and after.		Authentic texts used
Guided or focus groups established to support/extend as appropriate		Opportunities to share, feedback, review and improve oral and written work.

4.1 Assessment – principles and practice

FORMATIVE (ongoing)	DIAGNOSTIC (periodically)	SUMMATIVE (mid/end year)
To provide an on-going picture of how to modify teaching inputs, differentiate for groups and lessons and involve all pupils in reviews of their progress in both oracy and literacy.	To provide more detailed information about individual children's strengths and weaknesses, involve them in their own learning. To provide information for the teacher to plan the next steps in pupils' learning	To provide a record of each child's achievement for bi-annual reporting to parents and transition to next class To inform the school report, future planning, differentiation and grouping
Examples: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Focused marking, in guided groups • Success criteria (SC) marking, whereby SC are shared with pupils at outset and then used to structure feedback through marking • Annotated planning by 	Examples <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Assessing Pupils' Progress – 2-4 pieces of pupils' unaided work in different genres (marked as per column 1 throughout semester), are evaluated using standard levelling sheets. Samples of pupils (on level borderlines / 3 main ability groups) are used, not whole class. Overviews of main levels groups are working at and whether they are 'low', 'secure' 'high' achieving within the 	Examples: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • End of Unit Assessments-records of how well key learning objectives have been met • APP Assessments Folder • Records of parent / teacher meetings • Quest screening NFER test • European School baseline tests • P.M. Reading comprehension test • Vernon spelling test

omission – day to day annotations of pupils who exceed or fall short of learning outcomes set for them (not same as learning objective for whole class – more linked to levels within a same LO theme) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Self-assessment and peer marking – children use the SC themselves. • Target setting: establishing systems for communicating feedback on what the child needs to improve into recorded targets – these can embrace speaking / listening (especially for SWALs pupils), reading and writing 	accorded level. Judgements are based on a range of evidence not only piece. Teachers commonly come together to 'moderate' and check that 'low' L2 is same <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupil Progress Reviews - A periodic extension to ongoing feedback / target setting, teachers meet with groups of pupils (who have similar targets) or with individual pupils to discuss how well they are progressing. Again, a holistic view should be taken – speaking and listening targets are every bit as important given the linguistic complexities involved. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • SATS • Commercial tests NB –The guidance here is that once the formative and diagnostic approaches outlined in columns 1 and 2 are fully operational, they can replace not add to current systems which can take quite some time, including setting, marking and analysing test papers, levelling progress books, filling in key objectives sheets
Information from the above can be used in meetings between colleagues for <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Monitoring planning to ensure learning continuity and progression between semesters and across years • Moderating assessments to ensure accuracy of judgements and uniformity of expectations • Using evaluations to inform curriculum planning and target setting • Developing portfolios

Note

Schools might consider using the step descriptors from A language in common: assessing English as an additional language (QCA, 2000/584) to monitor the attainment and progress of pupils who may be at the earliest stages of learning English.

5.1 – Appendix 1- Glossary of Terms

Phonics

Phonics consists of knowledge of the skills of segmenting and blending, knowledge of the alphabetic code and an understanding of the principles underpinning the way the code is used in reading and spelling.

Phonemes

A phoneme is the smallest unit of sound in a word that can change its meaning (e.g. in /bed/ and /led/ the difference between the phonemes /b/ and /l/ signals the difference in meaning between the words bed, led). It is generally accepted that most varieties of spoken English use about 44 phonemes. In alphabetic writing systems (such as English) phonemes are represented by graphemes.

Graphemes

A grapheme is a symbol of a phoneme, that is, a letter or group of letters representing a sound. There is always the same number of graphemes in a word as phonemes. The alphabet contains only 26 letters but we use it to make all the graphemes that represent the phonemes of English.

Grapheme–phoneme correspondences (GPCs) and phoneme–grapheme correspondences

We convert graphemes to phonemes when we are reading aloud (decoding written words). We convert phonemes to graphemes when we are spelling (encoding words for writing). To do this, children need to learn which graphemes correspond to which phonemes and vice versa. In order to read an unfamiliar word, a child must recognize ('sound out') each grapheme, not each letter (e.g. sounding out ship as /sh/-/i/-/p/ not /s/- /h/ - /i/ - /p/), and then merge (blend) the phonemes together to make a word.

Segmenting and blending

Segmenting and blending are reversible key phonic skills. Segmenting consists of breaking words down into their constituent phonemes to spell. Blending consists of building words from their constituent phonemes to read. Both skills are important. The skill of blending (synthesising) phonemes, in order, all through the word to read it, tends to receive too little attention in the teaching of phonics; it is very important to make sure that children secure blending skills.

Digraphs and trigraphs (and four-letter graphemes)

A digraph is a two-letter grapheme where two letters represent one sound such as 'ea' in seat and 'sh' in ship. A trigraph is a three-letter grapheme where three letters represent one phoneme (e.g. 'eau' in bureau, and 'igh' in night). And by definition a four-letter grapheme uses four letters to represent one phoneme (e.g. 'eigh' representing the /ai/ phoneme in eight and in weight). A split digraph has a letter that splits, i.e. comes between, the two letters in the digraph, as in make and take, where 'k' separates the digraph 'ae' which in both words represents the phoneme /ai/. There are six split digraphs in English spelling: 'a-e', 'e-e', 'i-e', 'o-e', 'u-e', 'y-e', as in make, scene, like, bone, cube, type. A very few words have more than one letter in the middle of a split digraph (e.g. ache, blithe, cologne, scythe).

Abbreviations

VC, CVC, and CCVC are the respective abbreviations for vowel-consonant, consonant-vowel-consonant, consonant-consonant-vowel-consonant, and are used to describe the order of graphemes in words (e.g. am (VC), Sam (CVC), slam (CCVC), or each (VC), beach (CVC), bleach (CCVC)).

Narrative text

An account of events, experiences etc.

Phonological awareness

A range of skills such as the ability to analyze words into their constituent speech sounds.

Scanning

Reading quickly in order to establish the organisation and principal features of a text.

Semantic cues

The contextual information in a text that will help to predict a word or words.

Skimming

Reading quickly in order to find out the gist of a text

Syntactic cues

The information contained in grammar and language use that facilitates the interpretation of text.

Syntax

The totality of facts about the arrangement of words in a language

Writing genres

The various forms appropriate to different types of written communication – story, essay, letter, dialogue, recipe, instructions etc.

- Appendix 5.2 The writing environment

The child should:	Examples
Have/see their writing valued	Hear it praised, constructive comment, displays, class anthologies, reading it aloud, displays and exhibitions, publication, literary competitions
Use personal reading as a stimulus for writing	Journals, character sketches, reviews, story mapping etc
Experience a classroom environment that encourages writing	Class library, writing corner, displays of writing for visitors, anthologies of writing, books written by children, captioned charts, pictures and posters, co-operative drama
Observe the teacher model a wide variety of writing genres	Scribing & Modelling: narrative, explanations & arguments, letters, poems, project work etc.
Experience interesting and relevant writing challenges	Diaries, report writing, recounts, instructions, autobiographies, brochures, co-operative drama writing and eventual performance.
Use different narrative technique to engage and entertain the reader	Balance between description and dialogue, use of settings and characterisation, attitudes and assumptions, tone, atmosphere, humour
Write for an increasingly varied audience	Peers, younger children, adults, school newspaper/website, exhibitions & displays, exam environment.
Receive and give constructive responses to writing	Writing partnerships, use of editing process, exam environment.
Experience a level of success in writing that will be an incentive to continue writing	Celebrate children's achievements as well as offering constructive criticism that will enable the child to further improve.
Write for sustained length of time	Longer narrative writing expected with greater frequency.
Experience varied and consistent oral language activity as part of the pre-writing process	Brainstorming in pairs, drama, spider-graphs, dialogue, group discussion.
Observe the teacher improving writing	Drafting, revising, editing
Write independently through a process of drafting, revising,	See 'Genre across the Year Groups' page 11

editing and publishing
Write, without redrafting, on a given or chosen topic within certain time constraints	Especially useful in carrying out assessments of children's writing and building confidence in exam techniques and skills.
Use dictionaries and thesauruses to extend and develop vocabulary and spelling	Select words and language, drawing on previous knowledge, choosing words carefully for maximum impact. Pupils need to be aware of using language appropriate to the task.
Choose a register of language appropriate to subject and audience	Writing to a friend, writing for display, writing to seek information, observe the difference between formal and non formal language.
